THE MEMBERS SWORN IN.

Rev. Jesse H. Page Opened The House With Prayer.

BODY NOW READY FOR BUSINESS

Senate Opened With Prayer By Rev. N. M. Jurney—News Condensed From Morning Papers.

The Legislature of North Carolina, which Speaker Connor declares will be a history-making body, is now ready for business.

The senate met yesterday at one o'clock, and was opened with a fervent prayer by Rev. N. M. Jurney. The roll was called and all members found to be present. Two notices of contest were filed, one against White of the Fourteenth district by J. W. S. Robinson; the other against the member from Sampson by F. P. Jones. Lieutenant-governor Reynolds administered the oath to senators. A protest was offered against seating Kerley and Sothers, of the Thirty-first district. There is only one negro in the senate, T. O. Fuller, of the Eleventh district.

C. C. Daniels, of Wilson, was nominated and elected as chief clerk. The populist senator from Sampson said on behalf of the populists that they were not there to obstruct legislation, had no nominations to make and bade the democrats God-speed. Walter Murphy was nominated and elected reading clerk. The other caucus nominations as printed in the Telegram yesterday were formally elected. The rules of 1895 were adopted for the government of the senate. The house was informed of the senate's organization.

Senator Glenn introduced a resolution to regulate the pay of legislative employes, and which reduced the pay of clerks and other from $5 to $4. By consent the rules were suspended and the resolution unanimously adopted.

The senate adjourned until tomorrow at noon.

IN THE HOUSE.

E. O. Masten, principal clerk of the last house called this body to order about 12 o'clock. By special invitation Rev. Jesse H. Page delivered the opening prayer and was reverently listened to. The members were sworn in by Associate Justice Walter Clark.

Notice of contest was given from Greene county and the populist, Mitchell, who holds a certificate of election, was stood aside until the house organized. There was also notice of contest from Onslow, the republican holding the sheriff's certificate and the democrat holding a certificate from the clerk. The republican, Paul, presented himself to be sworn and was stood aside. All the representatives were present except those from Alleghany and Montgomery counties. Later the member from Alleghany arrived and was sworn in.

The next business was the formal election of Speaker and other officers of the house, which was effected as per the nominations made by the caucus, published yesterday. Elsewhere in this paper will be found Speaker Connor's speech on accepting the chair.

The house proceeding were completed by the appointment of a committee composed of Messrs. Overman, Walter E. Moore and Petree to notify the Governor that the house is completely organized.

Francis D. Winston introduced a resolution raising a committee of five to look into the matter of the public printing.

Would a Work House Pay?

There is some talk in legal circles of endeavoring to establish a work house in Guilford county for the punishment of female and youthful criminals, who cannot be worked on the county roads. The question is receiving a great deal of attention especially among the justices of the peace who are almost unanimously in favor of it. There are at present a number of negro women serving sentences in jail, but whether the number of this class of criminals would justify the establishment of a work house admits of questioning.

A New Citizen.

The Telegram welcomes to Greensboro, Mr. George T. Kearsley who has moved here from Radford, Va., to engage in the real estate business. He will have offices in the rooms now occupied by O'Connor. Mr. Kearsley is a most excellent gentleman, a good business man and we hope his stay among us will be long and prosperous.

SPEAKER CONNOR'S REMARKS

On Assuming The Duties of His Responsible Position.

After the formal election of Judge Connor as speaker of the house of representatives, among other things he said:

"This General Assembly convenes, in obedience to our constitution, at a time when its deliberation will be full of interest to us all as citizens. We meet at the beginning of the closing year of the nineteeth century—at a time when new questions stir the hearts of our people.

"These conditions impose high and unusually responsible duties upon us.

"Events which have occurred during the past year will impress themselves upon the century, and so may our actions as members of this General Assembly. It largely depends upon the manner in which we treat and deal with the several great questions which confront us whether the results shall be for the lasting good and honor of our people and our state.

"We will be called upon to deal with most important interests, vitally affecting the weal or woe of us all. Let us do so in a spirit of patriotism and wisdom.

"The people of our beloved Common wealth expect much at our hands that is good and prosperity-making. Let us strive to see that they are not disappointed. There are questions which must be dealt with in a spirit of firmness and moderation.

"The time has come when, in order to serve the state's best interests, we will be required to act in a manner which may at first appear to be radical, but time will prove our actions to have been wise. That time has come now, I say; the people demanded it at our hands, and we must not disappoint the people.

"To be elevated to the speakership of this house at any time is an honor to seek which would be to any man's credit, but to have been chosen as your presiding officer at this time, under existing conditions, is indeed an honor which might well justify the ambition of any patriotic man—and I thank you, gentlemen, most sincerely for this strong evidence of your confidence and esteem. I know I can safely trust this body to aid me in properly performing the important duties which will devolve upon me, and I know that each one of you will do your full duty as citizens of the great state of North Carolina, and so reflect the will and wishes of the good and great people who sent us here to perform a duty. I now declare this body ready for the transaction of business."

Justice Walter Clark then approached the speaker's desk and administered the customary oath of office, and ex-Judge Connor became Speaker Connor—the presiding officer of probably the ablest and certainly as patriotic a House of Representatives as ever assembled within these halls.

Is it True?

A citizen suggests that if the insurance companies doing business in Greensboro at present are going to fight every loss that happens in the city, it is time the people were hunting up some new companies to do business here.

The Telegram is not aware that such is the case; but if it is true it is perhaps time to look out for new concerns.

Wants a Bike Path.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 5—Governor Rollins was sworn in today. A notable feature os his inaugural address was the building of a bicycle path along the entire seacoast of the state, and the construction of a state highway from the Massachusetts line to the summit of Mount Washington with branch roads through other sections to the White Mountains; preservation of forests and that all colleges have experts in constructing and making good highways.

Russell Sage's Warning.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

New York, Jan. 5—Russell Sage issued a statement today which sounds a warning against letting the country's prosperity lead to unwarranted extravagance. If wisely used, in his judgment, the vast cash surplus held here will be a power for great good, but if not it will lead to profligacy that will be equally harmful.

WILL REPORT UNFAVORABLY

On Butler's Bill to Pension Confederate Soldiers.

SENATOR PRITCHARD OPPOSES IT

Mr. Kitchen Pleased At the Selection of Judge Connor As Speaker in North Carolina Legislature.

Special to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, Jan. 5—Senator Pritchard, who is a member of the committee on pensions of the senate, is opposed to the Butler bill to pension Ex-confederate soldiers. The senator will use what influence he possesses to prevent the reporting of the bill to the senate, and as a majority of the committee is opposed to the bill, it is likely that it will never get out of the committee. If it should be reported back, it will be with an unfavorable report.

During the past few days the North Carolina delegation in congress have received many petitions from various Confederate Veterans' posts of North Carolina, asking the members of the senate and house to oppose the passage of the bill of Senator Butler, and also the bill of Representative Rixey, of Virginia, to admit Confederate soldiers into national soldiers' homes of the country. The Virginia members and also members from almost every southern state, including Florida, have received numerous letters and petitions from Ex-confederates in which they state that the proposed legislation does not represent the wishes of the Confederate soldiers, and they ask that it be defeated. Senator Pritchard stated yesterday that there is almost absolutely no sentiment in North Carolina for the passage of the Butler bill, and that if it should pass by any means, many of the Confederate soldiers in the south who would be entitled to pensions would, in his opinion, refuse to draw it from the federal government.

In view of the unexpected opposition in the south, Representative Rixey, of Virginia, may abandon his bill. The measure to admit southern soldiers to the soldiers' homes has been reported to the house, and it is now on the calendar, but since it was reported Mr. Rixey has done nothing to advance its passage in the house.

Senator Pritchard has prepared, and will introduce in the Senate this afternoon, a bill granting a pension of fifty dollars per month to the widow of Lieutenant Shipp, who was killed during the battle of Santiago. The measure would have been introduced yesterday had it not been for the early adjournment of the Senate out of respect to the late Senator Morrill. As a member of the committee on pensions, Senator Pritchard will be in a position to urge the passage of the bill through the Senate promptly.

Representative Kitchin, the only democratic member from North Carolina in the present house, arrived in Washington yesterday morning from his home, Roxboro, where he spent pleasantly the Christmas holidays. Mr. Kitchin says that the organization of the two branches of the legislature accomplished at Raleigh, is strong, and will do much towards insuring a successful session of the state legislature. He says that the selection of Judge Connor for Speaker is a good one. Representative Kitchin says that the membership of the present legislature is one of the strongest in recent years, and is composed mostly of admirable men, who command the confidence of their constituents, and that the work which they will accomplish will do more towards insuring the future success of the democratic party in the state than anything else.

Among North Carolinans in the city is Mr. Roscoe Mitchell, vice-president of the National Young Men's Republican League. Mr. Mitchell is a young man of much ability and promise, but nevertheless is an advocate of the nomination of Senator Pritchard, for vice-president by the next national republican convention, with McKinley, on a platform favoring gold and expansion, and he believes this combination would carry North Carolina.

Among North Carolina people in Washington are Mr. C. L. Pearson, of Asheville, who is a relative of Congressman Pearson. He is stopping at the St. James hotel.

Messrs. Spencer B. Adams, of Yanceyville, and T. M. Ayers, of Newton, are at the National hotel.

Mr. George L. French, of North Carolina, is at the Ebbitt house.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Nowland, who have been visiting in Alexandria and Washington, have returned to their home at Salisbury, North Carolina.

The president will send to the senate today the nomination of Mr. Choate, to be ambassador to Great Britain An ambassador to Russia may also be appointed. It is expected that several postoffice nominations in the south may also go to the senate this afternoon.

NOTES FROM HIGH POINT.

The Local News From Our Neighbor Briefly Told.

TELEGRAM BUREAU.
HIGH POINT, N. C. Jan. 5

Chief of Police Bennett returned from Danville last night with the thief who broke into Dr. Pitts' dental office here Sunday night. He was arraigned before a magistrate for a preliminary hearing, and gave his name as Dr. Jas. A. Ball, of Texas. When the magistrate read his charge to the prisoner asked him "guilty or not guilty," the Dr. offered the court a dry grin and said the tools belonged to Dr. Pitts and that he obtained them without the latter's consent. This of course was all that was wanted, so the magistrate asked him if he could give bond and replying in the negative, he was taken to jail on the next train by Officer Burns. The trial lasted only about five minutes.

Dr. J. S. Lafferty, of Glass, whom we mentioned a few weeks ago as preparing to remove here, arrived this morning. His family will come soon. Glad to have them with us.

Editor H. A. Foote is in Raleigh on business.

Chas. W. Kirkman, of Winston, whom we mentioned a few days as being quite sick, has arrived to visit relatives and we are glad to know that the report of his illness was like Mark Twain said the report of his (Twain's) death was—"greatly exaggerated."

Mr. Wm. Partridge, travelling salesman of the Tate Furniture Co., went north last night in the interest of the company.

Mr. J. N. Campbell has received news from Winston that his brother, Wm. Campbell, who has been very ill, is slowly sinking.

The remains of the little four-year-old girl of Mr. and Mrs. Rastus Kennedy, who died here yesterday noon of diphtheria, was taken to Prospect today, where they will be interred.

Miss Ida Meroney, of Salisbury, is spending a few days with friends and and relatives.

Wusser Parker has the grip, but we trust that he will get no "wusser" and soon be out.

Rev. W. C. Brown, of Statesville, is visiting relatives in the city.

C. W. Watkins left on the noon train for Danville, after spending several days with friends in the city.

M'KINLEY INSTRUCTS OTIS.

Told To Deal Gently But Firmly With The Inhabitants.

AS TO REVENUES AND TAXES.

The Bestowal of The Blessings of Good Government Upon The People of The Philippines.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM

Washington, Jan. 5—Instructions cabled to General Otis were given out today which recite that Dewey's victory and the surrender of the Spanish forces practically effected a conquest in the Philippines. With the signing of the Paris treaty the disposition and government of the Philippines was ceded to us. For the fulfillment of the rights of sovereignty thus acquired and the responsible obligations of government thus assumed, the actual occupation of the island becomes immediately necessary. The military government heretofore maintained in the harbor and city of Manila will be extended over the entire group with all possible dispatch.

In performing this duty the military commander has been enjoined to inform the inhabitants that in severing their former political relations and establishing new, the authority of the United States will be exerted for the security of their persons, property and private rights of the people. The commander is to announce that "we come not as invaders or conquerors, but as friends to protect the natives, their homes and their employment, personal and religious rights. All who by active aid or quiet submission co-operate to give effect to these beneficent purposes, will receive the reward of its support and protection. Others will be brought within the lawful rule we have assumed with firmness if necessary, but without severenes, for if possible the municipal government will be performed by such officers as may accept the supremacy of the United States by taking the oath of allegiance."

All public property and revenues pass with the cession, and all taxes are payable to the authorities of the Unitkd States. All ports in our possession will be opened to commerce with friendly nations. All duties will be the same as at the time of the importation of the goods.

It should be the earnest and paramount aim of the military administration to win the confidence, respect and affection of the inhabitants by assuring every measure of individual rights and liberties, which is the heritage of a free people, by proving the mission of the United States is one of benevolent assimilation, substituting a mild sway of justice and right for arbitrary rule.

The fulfillment of this high mission and supporting a temperate administration of affairs must be sedulously maintained by the strong arm of authority to repress disturbance and overcome all obstacles to the bestowal of the blessings of a good and stable government upon the people of the Philippines under the American flag.

(Signed) Wm. McKinley.

Already, before a single law is passed by the democratic legislature, the state is conscious of a feeling of relief. This may sound like a bit of sentiment only, but it is a fact all the same.

The people of North Carolina have confidence in the ability and honesty of the men whom they have elected to make laws; they should also have confidence in their wisdom and not expect too much of them. All men are human and not divine, and the present legislature will have accomplished a great work when it puts a check on the wild and reckless tendency of things inaugurated by the fusionists. It will be impossible to adjust all laws exactly as they should be in one short term of the legislature.

A young fellow named Mitchell, from somewhere or somewhere else, claims that the late election in North Carolina shows that this is a republican state. He also claims on the strength of that statement that Jeter Pritchard should be the next republican nominee for vice-president. He, this Mitchell, is said to be very young; but he will be very old when he can truthfully call this a republican state. And when Pritchard reaches the vice-presidency, well, there will be ice-tags a foot long the very next August.

It is said the government is anxious to get rid of the black regiment of soldiers and the Morning Post says it is not surprising, and adds that when the farmers in the vicinity of Morehead City last summer contemplated their devastated watermelon patches they were anxious to get rid of the gallant Third, and were glad when it was gone. We are surprised at the Post and the Morehead City farmers, for it has long been conceded that where there are ripe watermelons there the negro is also, there is his home and abiding place, and there is no law, written or unwritten, that molests or makes him afraid. It is just as natural as it is for water and dirt to mix; and the farmer who dares to raise watermelons close by the path where negroes pass at night will find that his name is mud. You may try to brush the milky way out of the sky, but don't monkey with the negro's right in the watermelon patch.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want the best medicine that can be obtained, and that is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keepexpectoration easy.

You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.

You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only medicine in use that meets all of these requirements. This remedy is famous for its cures of bad colds throughout the United States and in many foreign countries. It has rivals, but, for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer and its splendid qualities are everywhere admired and praised. For sale by C. E. Holton.

Room In Which Napoleon Was Born.

His greatness still consecrates the place. Push back the jealousies and let in the light upon the mean beginnings of so stupendous a destiny. Here is the sedan chair, battered and faded, but a relic, and so sacred still. This is the bed on which he was born—hardly bigger than a couch. Here is madame's escritoire, where she must have done those household accounts (yearly more difficult to balance) with a little old frail child at her side sometimes, plucking at her dress and looking up awed (she is the one person in all the world of whom he is afraid) into her face. Here is her spinet, with its yellow notes, which she played perhaps while those little kings and queens to be danced to her music, and the one born great (the others only have greatness thrust upon them) stood apart unchildlike and solitary. The very chairs and tables are the same. There is the narrow strip of bedroom which was his.

"I should have been the happiest man in the world," he says to Montholon, six and forty years later, "with an income of $2,500 a year, living as the father of a family, with my wife and son, in our old home at Ajaccio."—Pall Mall Gazette.

The "Gray Matter."

The writer has examined many brains of persons morally or intellectually below the average—such as murderers, negroes and others sunk in ignorance. He has invariably found the layer of vesicular, or gray matter, to be thicker than that of Daniel Webster's brain. Elephants, porpoises, whales, dolphins and the grampus all have this layer thicker than the most intellectual men.

Another great objection to locating mind in the gray matter of the brain is that this substance is found in the interior part of the spinal cord and in all the nerve centers throughout the body. So that, if mind is situated in it, it is not confined to the brain, but dwells in the spine also, and is distributed all through the human frame.

Still another objection lies in the fact that wherever the gray matter exists near the surface of the brain it consists of three distinct layers, separated by a white substance, and the outermost layer is white, not gray.—Dr. Joseph Simms in Popular Science Monthly.

A Silkworm of the Sea.

Silk is obtained from the shellfish known as the pinna (mytilidæ), which is found in the Mediterranean. This shellfish has the power of spinning a viscid silk which in Sicily is made into a regular and very handsome fabric. The silk is spun by the shellfish, in the first instance, for the purpose of attaching itself to the rocks. It is able to guide the delicate filaments to the proper place and there glue them fast, and if they are cut away it can reproduce them.

The material when gathered (which is done at low tide) is washed in soap and water, dried, straightened and carded, one pound of the coarse filament yielding about three ounces of fine thread, which when spun is of a lovely burnished golden brown color.—New York Herald.

To Jog His Memory.

Dean Pigou says that many clergymen cannot trust themselves to repeat the most familiar prayers of the liturgy from memory, and he tells how Archdeacon Sinclair was much put out because he (Dean Pigou) sat directly behind him at a public meeting. The dean was puzzled, but understood all when the archdeacon removed his hat and knelt to pray. In the crown of his hat was printed in large type, "Prevent us O Lord," etc.

Herr Theodor Hoch.

Graduate of the musical conservatory at Berlin and bearer of a special gold medal bestowed upon him with honorable mention by Emperor Napoleon III, for his "wonder work" on the cornet during a series of grand concerts in the French capital. He was soloist in the famed Kaiser Frank Band, of the German empire and leading cornet soloist with Johann Strauss Langanback Band, at the Vienna Exposition. Subsequently he took part in a tour through Hungary, and later he filled a star contract with the Royal Court Musical Director, Herr Bilse Herr Hoch was quoted by the New York Herald of Nov. 13, 1881, as the leading cornetist of the world. He is the possessor of the Great Golden Fretano Medal with the crown of science and art, and was an honorable member of Circle Fretano at Larino, under the special protection of His Majesty Dom Pedro, late Emperor of Brazil, and the Duc D'Aosta.

Dullest town in creation. Everybody's sworn off and going round feelin' lonesome.

There was considerable New Year calling. In fact, the Christmas bill collectors called every ten minutes.

It's too bad! most of the fellows who swore off turned over a bottle of ink on the new leaf.

We employed two first-class swearers for a dollar a day, but after they finished work they decided that they owned the town, and the recorder fined them $10 apiece.—Atlanta Constitution.

TURNED THE TABLES.

A STORY OF ARTEMUS WARD AND HENRY J. BYRON.

The Famous Wit Started In to Have Some Fun With the Dramatist, but Found In the End That He Had Met His Match at Chaffing.

What follows relates to the first meeting of the late Henry J. Byron and Artemus Ward. It was at the Savage club after one of the Saturday dinners, and Tom Robertson suggested to Artemus to have a tilt with Byron and, if possible, draw him out. The genial showman had only been in England a few days, but he knew Byron's "metier" and went for him in this fashion:

"I fancy I have seen a face like yours before. Did you ever have a brother Alonzo?" Robertson was behind Artemus and winked at Byron.

"Alas, I had!" replied the dramatist, instantly catching the situation.

"He was a mariner, engaged on the deep?"

"That's so."

"You haven't heard of him for five years?"

Byron affected to be lost in reflection and deliberately replied: "It's five years ago this very day. How curious you should mention it, sir!"

"Well, sir," replied Artemus, taking out his handkerchief and pretending to wipe away a tear, "I sailed the salt sea with your brother. We were wrecked together in the gulf of Mexico, and before help came I killed and ate him! The moment I saw you I recognized the likeness. He was a good fellow, full of tender feeling."

"I am glad you found him tender," interrupted Byron, also pulling out his handkerchief.

"But, sir, I am awfully sorry I ate him," said Artemus in the most imperturbable fashion. "Had I known I should ever meet his brother I am sure I'd have gone without food some weeks longer. But I was driven to it, and you will forgive me, won't you? I liked Alonzo," and he offered his hand to Byron, which the latter shook with cordality.

"Excuse my emotion, won't you?" gasped Byron in his handkerchief. "He never wrote and told me what had become of him. I hope he agreed with you."

"A slight indigestion afterward. He was a little tough," replied Artemus, "but we'll not speak of that. We both suffered. He suffered most. But remember, sir, the law can't touch me now. It was stern necessity, and necessity, as you may have heard, knows no law. But I am willing to pay you damages for the loss. About what would you think a fair compensation?"

"Don't mention it," said Byron, who now thought it time to turn the tables. "I think your name is Ward?" said he.

"Yes."

"Artemus Ward?"

"Quite so."

"You had a father?"

"I had."

"He was a Yankee peddler in his own country, was he not? Sold bug pizen and fine tooth combs?"

"You've hit the comb—I mean the nail—on the head."

"He died in the black country of England, did he not?"

"He did."

"Well, I killed him. I knew you were his son the moment I laid eyes on you. He was a nice old gentleman, and I made his acquaintance in Staffordshire. He wished to go down a deep coal mine; so did I, and we went down together, had a good time, explored, lunched with the miners, drank more than was good for us and proceeded to return to Mother Earth's surface. After you have been down a mine you are fond of your mother, I assure you. The prodigal felt nothing to what I experienced. We entered the huge basket and were being slowly drawn toward the mouth of the pit when I saw the old rope was about to snap under the strain. It was a perilous, a horrible, a critical moment. The weight of two men was too great, and your father was a broad, bulky man. Self preservation is the first law of nature. An instant more and we were both lost. We seemed to be about 50 feet from the top.

I hastily called your father's attention to something—implored him, in fact, to look down the mine. He did so, and as I gently tipped him over he went whirling and crashing to the bottom. It was rough on him, but I saved myself. I ciphered it out on the instant like this: He is an old man, nearly bald, deaf in one ear, two teeth gone in front, with only a few years to live. I am half his age, strong and healthy, the father of a young family, with a career before me, a comedy to finish for the Haymarket and a burlesque accepted at the Strand. Now, I ask you, under the circumstances, did I not behave nobly?"

"You did, you did!" sobbed Artemus. "I would have acted that way myself."

"I am glad to find you so intelligent. You ate my brother and found him tough, and I am the assassin of your dear old father," continued Byron, keeping up the farce of pretended emotion. "We are both avenged. Let us draw a veil over the past and never allude to these heartrending incidents again."

"Agreed. We cry quits. Shake!" roared Artemus, extending both hands and dramatically dashing a flood of imaginary tears from his eyes. Then he summoned a waiter, glasses round were speedily ordered, and everybody was full of congratulations upon the ready manner in which the two wits had conducted their impromptu chaff.—Exchange.

A MONOMANIACAL WITNESS.

How His Phase of Lunacy Was Developed During a Trial.

"That calls to mind a queer experience of my own," said a lawyer who had listened to a story. "Some years ago I defended a fellow for murder in a little southern town, and the worst witness we had against us was an old German who was a stackbuilder by trade. A stack, by the way, is merely another name for a big chimney.

"The old fellow was perfectly honest and gave his evidence in such a clear, straightforward manner that I felt my client was doomed unless I could think of some way to break him down. While I was cudgeling my brains a friend whispered to me to ask him how high he could build a stack. 'What do you mean?' I asked, in surprise. 'Never mind,' said my friend. 'Just slip in that question and see.'

"So at the tail end of the cross examination I paused, as if struck by an afterthought, and said, 'You are a stackbuilder, I believe?' 'Yes, sir,' replied the witness. 'Well, sir,' I continued, 'about how high can you build'— I never got any further. A swift, inscrutable change flashed over the German's face, and he rose excitedly from his chair. 'As high as der sky!' he roared. 'So high dose angels come around it like birds!'

"In five seconds he was raving. You see, the man was a monomaniac—sane on every subject but one, and my friend happened to know his weak spot. It is hardly necessary to say that his evidence in regard to the homicide was promptly ruled out by the judge, and as there was no other witness of importance my man was cleared. The rascal should have been hanged and would have been but for the lucky reference to the stack."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

TWO OF THEM.

Private O'Mara's Tart Retort to His Unaccommodating Colonel.

Here is a story told of Patrick O'Mara, a private in the Ninth regulars: Not long ago he went to the colonel, who was a severe disciplinarian, for a two weeks' leave of absence.

"Well," said the colonel, "what do you want a two weeks' furlough for?"

Patrick answered, "Me woife is very sick, and the children are not well, and if ye didn't mind she would like to have me home for a few weeks to give her a bit of assistance."

The colonel eyed him for a few minutes and said: "Patrick, I might grant your request, but I got a letter from your wife this morning saying that she didn't want you home; that you were a nuisance and raised the devil whenever you were there. She hopes I won't let you have any more furloughs."

"That settles it. I suppose I can't get the furlough then?" said Pat.

"No, I'm afraid not, Patrick. It wouldn't be well for me to do so under the circumstances."

It was Patrick's turn now to eye the colonel as he started for the door. Stopping suddenly, he said:

"Colonel, can I say something to yez?"

"Certainly, Patrick. What is it?"

"You won't get mad, colonel, if I say it?"

"Certainly not, Patrick. What is it?"

"I want to say there are two splendid liars in this room, and I'm one of them. I was never married in me loife."—New York Tribune.

She Studied French.

Four young women were walking together on Charles street today and engaged in animated conversation.

"What do you think I done today, Clara?" said one. "I translated 40 pages of French exercise. Wasn't that fine?"

"Fine," said the other, "I should say it was. I wish I had done as good. I only translated 20."

Comment is unnecessary, but one feels like asking, Is this a sign of the times? Is what Mme. Butterfly called "United States American English" being neglected for the so called accomplishments?

One can forgive the woman who, gazing at some renaissance lace, blandly remarks, "Ah, that is the 'Rennysant,'" but for the girl who assiduously studies French and murders English meanwhile, as Macbeth murdered sleep, there seems no possible excuse.—Baltimore News.

What Is a Signature?

When Constable was requested to put his signature to one of his pictures, he answered, "Why, my dear sir, it is signed all over." Let the preacher preserve his personality, and his sermon also will be "signed all over." A number of Thackeray's pen and ink sketches were sold not long since in London, and, although they bore no monogram or signature, no one disputed their genuineness. A true preacher also cannot be hid.

That which John had seen and with his own hands handled of the word of life could never be to any other person just what it was to him. A preacher who puts himself into his sermon is as readily detected in his sermon as anywhere else. Even his apprehension of truth, his way of looking at it, his fashion of delivering it, is all his own. Let us repeat it. His sermon will be "signed all over." —Homiletic Review.

To Our Friends and Patrons:

In closing our books for the year 1898 we find we have quite a number of small accounts which in themselves are trivial, but she aggregate would make quite a nice sum. While we wish to be obliging and courteous to our customers and try ro please all, we must insist upon getting onr business upon more of a Cash Basis.

To open so many small accounts involves quite an amount of book keeping and consumes too much valuable time. This can bo avoided by paying cash for your bundle when delivered and do away with all possibility of disputed accounts.

Thanking our customers for their patronage in the past, and extending to each and every one the greetings of the season.

Santanelli, Hypnotist.

The exhibitions of hypnotism to be given by Santanelli at the Academy of Music next week promise to be extremely interesting. When laughing gas was first discovered the discoverer could not persuade the public to accept the use of this wonderful anaesthetic until a shrewd genius conceived the happy thought of renting an opera house and inviting volunteers from the audience to come on the stage and partake of this then mysterious gas. After a few nights volunteers became numerous, the public became familiar with its effect and in a few years they lost all fear of the gas that caused people to go through humorous antics, yet leaving no ill effects. Today no one hesitates when in the dental office to take laughing gas. It is the same with hypnotism; the public entertainers are doing good missionary work in showing the general public that all can be hypnotized; that the sound minded man is the better subject; that no ill can come from it; that a subject does not lose his individuality; and no advantage can be taken of him. He is the king of laugh makers, giving by far the most humorous exhibition of its kind extant, and is pleased to discuss the subject and give demonstrations to any who are interested enough to call on him.

The prices will be 15, 25, and 35c. Ladies will be admitted free on Monday night if accompanied by an escort holding a paid 35c. ticket.

Mr. S. A. Fackler, editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe and its exhausting after effects. Never fails. Howard Gardner.

The remains of the late Senator Morrill and those of his wife were yesterday placed in a vault at Montpelier Vt.

Mr. Elisha Berry, of this place, says he never had anything to do him so much good and give such quick relief from rheumatism as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He was bothered with shooting pains from hip to knee until he used this liniment, which affords prompt relief.—B. F. Baker, druggist, St. Paris, Ohio. For sale by C. E. Holton.

The office of the governor of Illinois at Springfield was entered on Saturday night and $580 stolen from a drawer.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. 'Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God I am saved and now a well and healthy woman. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug rtore. Regular size 50c and $1. Guaranteed or price refunded.

PA AND FREDDIE ABOARD.

An Exciting Time For Which There Was Really No Occasion.

As a passenger train on the Hannibal was puling out a tall countryman, incumbered with four bundles, a scythe snath, an ax handle, a bag of bananas and a small boy, came out of the depot and began to take his bearings. Up and down the tracks his gaze wandered, up and down the long lines of coaches drawn up under the sheds, and at last, as the rear coach was passing him, he caught sight of the moving train.

"Come on, Freddie! Thar she goes!" he yelled and began to transfer some of his belongings from his right hand to his left as he ran. Freddie made an amazing record for one whose legs were so short, and they were soon beside the steps on the rear end of the last coach. There was a man standing on the platform.

"Hay, stop 'er, stop 'er!" cried Freddie's pa. "Put on that ar wind brake, mister! Pull that ar rope up over your head and make 'er stop!"

But the man only reached down and caught Freddie, who was leaping and swinging and dragging by turns in his vain efforts to make his short legs stretch far enough to get his feet on the lower step. Pa held on to him with one hand and the man on the platform finally succeeded in drawing him up. Pa slung the banana bag after him. It slid on across the platform and went overboard on the other side. Pa made a leap for the steps, dropped a bundle and stooped to pick it up. The recovery of the bundle took but a second, but the train was getting well under way and was a tail's length ahead when he began the chase again. One wild spurt, with his coattails standing out behind him, a reckless leap, and pa, too, was aboard, but a bundle containing an undershirt had been lost in the tussle.

An employee of the depot picked the bundle up, and a section man who happened by appropriated the bananas to his own refreshment. The crowd that had breathlessly awaited the result of the race melted away, and the depot attendants, who had been preparing to pick pa up with shovels, went about their duties.

Half an hour later a very angry man came prancing down the depot platform. He was holding a small boy by one hand, and the ends of an ax handle and scythe snath protruded from under his arm.

It was pa. He approached a depot official and said:

"Why didn't you tell me that wasn't the Wabash? I wanted the Wabash; that's what I wanted."

The official tenderly handed pa his new undershirt and replied in the soft tones that soothe the ruffled soul:

"I believe you forgot to ask me."—Kansas City Times.

INSISTED ON PAYING.

A Man Who Wouldn't Accept Legal Advice For Nothing.

The other day an old fellow slouched into Attorney Oscar Kahn's office, on Legal row, and introduced himself as Mr. Smith, Jones, Brown, or something, of a neighboring county. He said he wanted to consult a lawyer and was accorded a seat and one of the attorney's sweetest smiles.

He then explained that while he was away from home the sheriff or some deputy had attached his wife's sewing machine and bureau for taxes. He did not propose to tolerate such imposition, he declared.

"What is the amount of taxes?" inquired the lawyer.

"Lemme see—$1.28," was the reply.

The lawyer could not conceal a smile, but hastened to say: "Well, Mr. Smith, if you want my advice, it is to go back and settle that small amount. It looks like the easiest and best way out of it."

The old fellow thought a moment and replied that he believed he would. Answering, he asked, "How much do I owe you?"

"Oh, nothing, sir," was the reply. "I won't charge you anything for a little advice like that."

"But I allus pays fer whut I git and want ter pay yer jes' the same."

"Oh, that's all right; come in again some time when you need advice on something more important, and we'll square it then."

"Naw, I want ter pay it now. Jes' squeal out. Ef it's 25 cents, I'll pay it. Ef ye want 50, there it is!" And he threw down a half dollar and left.—Paducah (Ky.) Sun.

Harking Back.

Mrs. Acklins—I don't want to be impertinent, but how old are you anyway? Some of the ladies were discussing your age at the club the other day, and several of them claimed that you were at least 35, but I insisted that you were not more than 33.

Mrs. Biswick—I'm glad you were so kind. Of course you didn't mention the fact that you were ready to leave the grammar grade when I was in the primary class at school, did you?—New York World.

Why, of Course.

"I've called to tell you, sir, that the photographs you took of us the other day are not at all satisfactory. Why, my husband looks like an ape!" "Well, madam, you should have thought of that before you had him taken."—Household Words.

The Egyptian women wore bangle hoops of gold in their ears, which were regarded as the wearer's choicest possessions, and were parted from only under direst stress. The golden calf was supposed to have been made entirely from the earrings of the people.

The death penalty is rarely enforced in Germany, Austria, Denmark or Sweden. In New York 11 out of 12 murderers escape without any punishment, and in the United States only one murderer in 50 suffers capital punishment.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply iron and quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter nauseating tonics. Price, 50c.

Horrible agony is caused by Piles, Burns and Skin Diseases. These are immediately relieved and quickly cured by De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Beware of worthless imitations. Howard Gardner.

BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

W. H. Matthews went to Burlington at noon.

The corset sale at Brown's continues. See ad.

Dr. B. W. Best returned yesterday from a business trip to his old home in Wayne county.

Miss Mary Husband, of Reidsville, is visiting the family of L. M. Clymer on Asheboro street.

Miss Rossie Williams, of Knoxville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Dr. B. W. Best, on Asheboro street.

Thacker & Brockmann's store will be closed tomorrow taking their annual inventory of stock. They will open again Saturday.

A force of hands is making excavations for the new sewer on West Washington street. The sewer will extend from South Elm to Ashe.

One week only at prices mentioned in Kaufmann's ad today, for children's leggings, men's shoes, shirts and flanellette night robes.

Frank Fuller, of Durham, passed through at noon today going to Spray. He was accompanied from here by Dr. Geo. A. and Frank B. Mebane.

An employe of J. Van Lindley started to Southern Pines early this morning with a pair of mules. He steered from the back of one and had the other in tow.

John S. Robson, a one-legged rebel of Culpepper, Va., is in the city stopping at the Allen. Mr. Robson is canvassing the city, selling a nice little book—"How a One-legged Rebel Lives"—of which he is the author.

A large brass colored cap has been placed on the dome of the Southern's new depot. A large weathercock with S. R., the Southern's "initials" on it, also adorns the dome. The dome will be covered with copper and when finished will present a handsome appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kestler left at noon today, for Burlington, where Mr. Kestler has bought a drug store. After closing the trade, Mr. and Mrs. Kestler will return to Greensboro. The business at Burlington will be managed by Mr. S. S. Haithcock, of this city.

Harry Donnell, the handsome and clever salesman of Matthews, Chisholm, Stroud & Rankin, is trying his hand at decorating—the firm after cleaning out the stock of Rufus Waterhouse cravats during the holidays, have supplied themselves with a new lay-out, and the beautiful designs can be seen by taking a peep in the show window. "Harry is a daisy"—so are the cravats.

New Insurance Firm.

Robt. W. Murray, formerly bookkeeper in the Bank of Guilford, and his brother, Chas. H. who has just completed a course in Smithdeal's Business College, at Richmond, will, we are glad to state, engage in the insurance business in this city. They will act as agents for fire, life and accident insurance companies and occupy the place now occupied by J. H. Saunders. They are thrifty, intelligent young men and we bespeak for them a share of the patronage of our people.

Ignored the Color Line.

Mayor Taylor yesterday afternoon disposed of a case in which two white men and a negro were charged with an affray. The evidence showed that the men were playing and the fun developed into a fist-and-skull battle, in which it required both white men to persuade the negro that his skull could be injured. The mayor fined the white men $3.00 each for playing with a negro, and the latter the same amount for fighting.

Moving Along.

Mr. Howard Gardner, one of our progressive druggists, has just added a beautiful show case to his already nicely furnished store. It is a modern up-to-date piece of furniture, about four feet high and six feet long, has heavy plate glass in both ends and one side, with an extra heavy bevel-edged slab on top The case is filled with choice cigars, and they are for sale.

MORE PANTRY ROBBERIES.

Police Say They Will Make These The End of a Series.

There is a set of miserable wretches in Greensboro who have committed a series of pantry and smoke house robberies within the past few weeks. Pantry after pantry has been robbed, but the thieves have so far succeeded in eluding the police, leaving no clue whatever except a few tracks which could be traced but a short distance.

The smoke house of Dr. L. W. Crawford on West Market street, was gotten into by thieves last night and a whole hog, weighing 180 pounds was stolen therefrom. The thieves, of whom there were two, gained access by unlocking the door.

The pantry of W. H. Micheaux's house, at the Finishing Mills, was also robbed last night. Here, as at Dr. Crawfords', the door was unlocked and the tracks of two men found in the yard. The thieves carried off about 200 pounds of fresh meat from this place.

The police are at work on the cases and will follow the slightest clue to the end of it. Search warrants will be procured this afternoon and it is more than probable that tonight will see the breaking-up of the pantry brigade that has done such clever work here for several weeks.

They Did Well.

The democratic legislative caucus did well in adopting a resolution that no member of the legislature shall be elected to any position within the gift of that body, and that no member's son shall be made a page. Out of these two things a good deal of scandal has grown in times past.—Charlotte Observer.

You are not obliged to buy shoes that are as hard as iron or heavy as brick to insure their wear; neither is it necessary to have the leather so soft and stretchy as to spoil the finish and make the color look faded and dead after a short season's wear.
